

DDWA are pleased to advise our new Employment Guide,

'Kick-starting Your Child's Career Journey' is now available on our website.

Hard copies are available to family members and are being distributed this week to local Disability Service Commission offices.

This resource is particularly suited to parents of highschool students, though also has a key message around setting up the expectation for employment when children are in primary school.

This resource is available on our website <http://ddc.org.au/rise/>

KICK STARTING YOUR CHILD'S CAREER JOURNEY - A Guide for families of young people with disability

All families want their children to lead productive and fulfilling lives.

People with disability also share this aspiration. More than 80% of people receiving the Disability Support Pension report they would like to have a job.

This guide by Sue Robertson, former Managing Director of Edge Employment Solutions, provides practical tips and information to help families plan constructively for their child's future employment. It is intended to be used in conjunction with a range of other online resources which are listed on the last page.
